

Home of Galway, Connemara, Mayo, Clare and the revered Croagh Patrick. A rugged coastline, splintered by the Atlantic's timeless persistence, is peppered with peninsulas, ports and tiny islands. Visitors to the West of Ireland will marvel at its natural beauty, and will cherish its memories as fondly as they do the friendliness of the locals. Come here to find some of Ireland's best evening entertainments and folk sessions, perhaps a little more authentic than you might find in the most tourist-friendly haunts of Dublin and Killarney. Before you know it, you'll be singing along!

Places to visit consist of The cliffs of Moher, Kylemore Abbey, Galway City known for its charming cobbled streets, Westport, Clonmacnoise is perhaps the foremost of Ireland's many monastic cities, Flaggy Shore is just a simply beautiful sight., Kilmacduagh Monastery is located just outside the town of Gort, Keem Bay, Downpatrick Head is a heritage site giving visitors a unique view of the Atlantic ocean and Dereen Woods a magical setting throughout the year.
