

Tips on refilling your LPG

Refill day prior to return to make your handover as smooth as possible

1. Make sure your engine is off and tap on bottle is closed (turn tap clockwise).
2. Remove black refill cap (turn anti-clockwise).
3. Put pump nozzle into gas flow point and twist (bayonet fitting).
4. Squeeze nozzle handle and lock in open position.
5. Push and hold flow button on LPG pump.
6. Pump will automatically stop when full.
7. Release filler nozzle (it will make a whoosh sound and some excess gas may be released, which is normal)
8. Put filler cap back on.

Note: If you are going to Europe then you will need to use the adaptors attached to your LPG bottle. Find the correct one and screw it firmly in the filler nozzle.

Please note: By law you are able to refill these bottles at stations which supply Autogas. Extract below: IIS028 UKLPG Information Sheet 24 – June 2007

FILLING OF USER OWNED, PORTABLE REFILLABLE LPG CYLINDERS AT AUTOGAS REFUELLING SITES

It is the advice from UKLPG that user owned, portable LPG cylinders should not be refilled at self service autogas refuelling sites. (by 'portable LPG cylinder' they mean a cylinder carried loose onto the forecourt)

Containers which are attached to a vehicle for heating or cooking (on camper vans or similar) present similar risks on filling to those for propulsion purposes and may be permitted to be re-filled at autogas refuelling sites provided they:

- are not removed for refilling; and
- are secured in a suitable enclosure; and
- are fitted with an internal device to physically prevent filling beyond 80%; and
- are connected to a fixed filling connector which is not part of the container.

Diesel/LPG

Just go have put together a list of diesel & LPG gas refuelling stations which are on route to the Just go depot.

We do recommend that you take the opportunity to re-fill your LPG whenever you see it listed at petrol stations throughout your journey.

Please note: If the LPG is not returned full there will be a £40.00 refill charge plus a £25.00 administration charge. If the diesel is not full you will be charged the appropriate amount as detailed in the sidekick manual. Alternatively, if time permits, you may be asked to go and refuel in order for the next clients to have a full tank of fuel/gas ready for their holiday.

Locations

You are required to return your motorhome back to us with a full tank of diesel and LPG. We cannot guarantee that every LPG service station on this leaflet will always have LPG available.

We have had occasions where some garages have told customers they are not allowed to refill their LPG. Please note that by law you are able to refill these bottles at stations which supply Autogas.
