Spain, Valencia

The port city of Valencia is on Spain's south eastern Orange Blossom Coast, where the Turia River meets the Mediterranean Sea. It's known for its City of Arts and Sciences, with futuristic structures including a planetarium, an oceanarium and an interactive museum. Valencia also has several beaches, including some within nearby Albufera park, a wetlands reserve with a lake, walking trails and bird-watching.

In the New Year, Valencia begins to get ready for its most international festival: Las Fallas. Starting in March, every day at 2 pm the city will be filled with the explosive noise of the traditional masquetà firework displays. Afterwards, the city's outdoor bars and cafés fill with people enjoying a typical pre-dinner aperitif. The main celebration, however, will take place from the 15th to the 19th of March, when more than 400 hand painted cardboard monuments will take over the city's streets to be burnt in bonfires on the 19th.

Valencia's historic centre is one of the largest in Spain, with approximately 169 hectares; this heritage of ancient monuments, views and cultural attractions makes Valencia one of the country's most popular tourist destinations. Major monuments include Valencia Cathedral, the Torres de Serrans, the Torres de Quart, the Llotja de la Seda (declared a World Heritage Site by UNESCO in 1996), and the Ciutat de les Arts i les Ciències (City of Arts and Sciences)
