Derbyshire

Derbyshire is a county in the East Midlands of England. A substantial portion of the Peak District National Park lies within Derbyshire, containing the southern extremity of the Pennine range of hills which extend into the north of the county. Derby has a population of nearly 250,000. Derby is famous for setting in motion Britain's Industrial Revolution with some of the country's first factories and spinning mills. Royal Crown Derby has been producing porcelain in Derby since the 1750s.

Legend has it the world famous Bakewell Tart was created accidentally by a cook in the town's Rutland Arms Hotel in 1820. It is said the almonds, sugar and eggs which ended up as a custard layer above the jam were intended by the landlady to enrich the pastry of a jam tart.

Robin Hood's right hand man - Little John - is buried in a huge grave at the church in Hathersage. He is said to have returned to his native village after burying Robin Hood, there he prepared his own grave beneath an ancient yew in the churchyard.
