Snowdonia

Snowdonia National Park covers 838 square miles and is one of the three natural parks found in Wales. The scenery and activities that can be done here are so diverse that you will be spoilt for choice. Whether you are coming for pulse raising activities or simply to stand and admire the Snowdonia Mountains, lakes, rivers and forest. The landscape is breath-taking and unique. There are nine mountain ranges and they cover over half of the national park's surface with some of the peaks reaching over 3,000 feet. The mountains are not the only attraction there are many river gorges, waterfalls and valleys. Forests are filled with ash, oak, rowan and hazel trees and there is also 23 miles of coastline located in the park.

The park's historic Snowdon Mountain Railway climbs to the summit of Wales's highest mountain, Mount Snowdon, offering views across the sea to Ireland. The park is also home to an extensive network of trails, over 100 lakes and craggy peaks like Cedar Idris and Tryfan. With well-defined trails leading past sheer rock faces and grassy slopes speckled with flowers, Snowdon is one of the UK's most popular mountain hiking destinations. On a clear day, the views will raise your spirits higher with every step. Make it to the top, and you can reward yourself with a restoring mug of tea at the award-winning Hafod visitor centre open from spring until autumn.

If you're planning an activity holiday in Snowdonia, there's no need to limit yourself to Snowdon alone. There are more than 90 peaks within the park. Fifteen of these, including Aran Fawddwy and Tryfan, are over 900m high. Seven are higher than Scafell Pike, England's loftiest mountain. It's easy enough to pull on your boots and stride off under your own steam, but expert local walking guides can add an extra dimension to your adventure. They'll be glad to point out geological features dating back to the Ice Age, or chat about local natural history and archaeology along the way. If you like the sound of that, you'll love the Barmout walking festival in September and the Betws-y-Coed in October.

Places to visit

Conwy Castle

A Picturesque Castle built for King Edward I in the late 13th Century and is said to be haunted by a past resident.

Address: Rosehill Street, Conwy, Snowdonia National park, LL32 8AY

Snowdon Mountain Railway

The Snowdon Mountain Railway has been welcoming guests to the little village at the foot of the Snowdonia National Park, Llanberis since 1896.

Address: Llanberis, Snowdonia National Park, LL55 4TY

Walking in Wales

You'll be in the hands of local experts. They organise guided and self-guided tours for novices and experienced walkers (with luggage transfers), ranging from a few to 14 days. Tours cover many parts of Wales, including Snowdonia and Offa's Dyke, but the Isle of Anglesey is the company's speciality.

Snowdonia National Park

With wild landscapes and villages steeped in history, Snowdonia National Park is a breathtaking destination for activity holidays, short breaks or days out with family and friends. It's best known for hiking, but there's plenty more to enjoy, from waterfalls, lakes and world-class mountain biking to a vintage steam railway that climbs the highest peak in Wales.

Llechweidd Slate Caverns

History and adventure combine to make a great day out for the whole family.

Address: Snowdonia National Park, Blaenau Ffestiniog, LL41 3NB
