

Campbeltown, Oban & the Isle of Mull

To the South of Fort William down Loch Linnhe is Oban. This small town is situated in a beautiful crescent shaped bay and is known as the 'Gateway to the Isles' and the 'Seafood capital of Scotland'.

Ferry services run from here to Coll, Port Askaig, Castlebay, Colonsay, Lismore, Tiree, Mull, Barra and South Uist in the outer islands.

Oban makes a brilliant touring base for wanting to explore these further destinations but there are also lots to see in the town itself. Spend your days exploring castles, gardens, beaches and forests around Oban and make sure to try some of the top-quality seafood.

From Oban travel South and take in the coastal scenery as you approach Tarbert which has impressive wildlife, including birds of prey and deer. Continue on the only road around the Kintyre Peninsula and you will arrive in Campbeltown, home to a few distilleries including Glen Scotia and Springbank. Visitors can enjoy a guided tour around and find out the secrets of whisky making in Kintyre.
